

Tuesday, August 5, 2008 12:07 PM CDT

Thompson shows commitment

DAVID A. DUNFEE

WATERLOO --- I've done some research and realize that when it comes to the candidates running for sheriff of Black Hawk County, only one of them has a college degree. Only one has actually taught college level classes and only one of them is actually working on his master's degree in public administration. That candidate is Deputy Tony Thompson. His 15 years with the Black Hawk County Sheriffs Office, his education, his commitment to educating others, and his commitment to self improvement (through education, study, networking and personal drive/desire) certainly fits the bill for what I am looking for in the next sheriff of Black Hawk County. I love the thought of a well-spoken, well-educated and well-thought-of sheriff. I know that Tony Thompson fits that description.